Disability Pride; A weekend of power and performance.

Join us over the weekend of 1st, 2nd and 3rd December 2017 to celebrate disability pride in York, with comedy, theatre, dance, music, spoken word and art.

Friday 1st December, 630-9pm - Disability Pride Cabaret. York St John University, Temple Hall. Compared by comedian and activist Laurence Clark the evening presents a showcase of York's disabled people's artistic talent.

Saturday 2nd December, 11-4pm -What is Disability Pride? York Explore Central Library. Beginning with a live video link to Urbino, Italy and the sharing of some short disability films with the Eleanor Worthington Prize, then followed by an afternoon of poetry, debate, doodles, zine making and more. With spoken word by Say Owt, including Jackie Hagan of 'Some People Have too many legs' and others.

Sunday 3rd December, 12-3pm - Pop up Disability Cinema. York Explore Central Library. One disability feature film, some film shorts, possibly popcorn, all about disability and then a bit of a debate about what it all means. Titles to follow.

All events are free and will include BSL interpreting. We plan for an inclusive event, but please do let us know if you need us to do anything to facilitate access.
